

Unit 3 Assignment Conceptualization

Interprofessional collaboration is a dynamic process that allows individuals from different professions to share ideas, concerns, and problem-solve. When working on interprofessional teams, it's important to have an understanding of the various scopes of practice and the roles of each member of the interprofessional team. This knowledge enables team members to consider the professional abilities of each member of the team, how that affects the shape of the team, and where the team's capacity lies to develop best-practice client care.

Through this unit's assignment you will engage in dialogue with an interdisciplinary group of your peers, using the discussion forum, to address the prompts from a simulated patient case scenario.

This assignment enables you to assess your ability to identify the different members of the interprofessional team, outline overlapping roles of the professionals of the interprofessional team, and negotiate interdependent relationships with other professions; all while discussing a team plan that illustrates strategies to meet specific healthcare needs of a patient while executing components of a treatment plan that gives every member of the team a valuable role.

As a group, you will analyze the roles and responsibilities of the members of the interprofessional team and apply those to the case study presented. Through a video simulation, you will witness members of the interprofessional team discussing a plan of action for Mr. Jones. Your artifact should be a representation of how that plan will be put into action.

After developing your group artifact, each individual group member will construct a brief reflection paper that explains your experience navigating the case with your peers. This reflection affords everyone the opportunity to explain what they learned about your group members and explain their viewpoint on the case. This is also your opportunity to share your experience explaining the roles and responsibilities of your profession to your teammates. What challenges did you face? How did you get the other members of the team to understand and value your role on the interprofessional team?
